

Are there fiber optic cable companies in Nigeria

Article Overview

Yes, Nigeria has numerous fiber optic cable companies, including manufacturers, service providers, and suppliers catering to both residential and corporate needs.

Key Fiber Optic Companies

FibreOne is a leading provider of Fiber to the Home (FTTH) solutions, offering high-speed internet for homes and offices with reliable connectivity and unlimited broadband services. Backbone Connectivity Network (BCN) specializes in Metropolitan Fibre Access and National Long-Distance Transmission, providing extensive coverage across Nigeria and internationally with over 1,000 km of wholly-owned fiber infrastructure. Lulifiber Telecom focuses on high-speed internet services using advanced fiber optic technology, serving both residential and business clients while expanding its network infrastructure. dB-Zero offers comprehensive fiber optic cable manufacturing and services, including design, planning, deployment, and maintenance of fiber optic networks. Max. Broadbased Communications Limited (BBC) implements innovative NO-DIG installation methods and operates as a Metropolitan Fiber Optic Network Operator, providing connectivity solutions for telecom operators, ISPs, and corporate clients. Phase3 Telecom and Finet Fiber Cables are also notable, providing fiber optic network infrastructure and local cable production for ISPs, resellers, and contractors. International companies like Huawei Technologies Nigeria Ltd. and ZTE Nigeria Ltd. supply fiber optic cables and telecom solutions, supporting Nigeria's broadband expansion. MainOne Cable Company is a major West African data and connectivity provider, known for its undersea fiber network and local cable infrastructure.
