

How much does a 120mm fiber optic cable weigh

Overview

They can weigh between 60 to 200 kg per kilometer (39.7 to 132 pounds per 1000 feet), depending on the design and materials used. However, some general guidelines can provide a rough estimate: Indoor Fiber Optic Cables: These are typically lighter as they require less protection. It combines the cross-sectional area of the cable with the material's density to give a precise measurement, thus enabling professionals to ascertain the cable's weight. The weight of a cable depends on its material, construction, and dimensions. Copper cables, for instance, are heavier than aluminum cables, while fiber optic cables are significantly lighter. The formula to calculate cable weight per meter is:
$$CWM = \frac{CW}{L}$$
 where CWM is the weight per meter, CW is the total weight, and L is the length. For outdoor environments, the internationally known multilayer inner sheath ALPA® construction: Aluminium/HDPE/PA (nylon) withstands aggressive constituents and fluids, providing huge benefits for installing Fiber optic in harsh environments. Or PVC flame retardant, and Heat & Oil resistant is black color.
