

Optical Module Communication Manufacturing Quotation

Article Overview

Quotations for optical communication modules depend on module type, speed, manufacturer, and production scale, with suppliers like Sanoc and Cobtel offering bulk pricing and OEM services.

Key Suppliers and Quotation Sources

- Sanoc (Taiwan): Specializes in high-speed optical modules including SFP, SFP+, SFP28, QSFP+, and QSFP28. They provide custom manufacturing, automated assembly, and rigorous quality control. For quotations, you can contact them directly through their website to discuss volume, specifications, and delivery timelines .
- Cobtel (China): Offers bulk optical communication modules at competitive prices. They encourage potential buyers to request a pricelist and quotation directly from the factory, ensuring verification of the company account before payment .

Factors Affecting Quotation

- Module Type and Speed: Higher-speed modules (e.g., 400G, 800G) or advanced platforms like QSFP28 generally cost more due to complex design and materials .
- Raw Materials: Lasers, silicon chips, and specialty semiconductors are major cost contributors .
- Manufacturing Complexity: Precision assembly in cleanroom environments, automated testing, and quality assurance increase production costs .
- R&D and Innovation: Modules with low power consumption, high density, or advanced packaging carry higher premiums .
