

Portuguese company selling optical splitters

Article Overview

Mauser and Farnell Portugal are key suppliers of optical splitters in Portugal, offering a wide range of products and fast delivery options.

Mauser

Mauser offers a variety of fiber optic splitters suitable for different network applications. Customers can pick up orders at any of their 7 stores across Portugal or opt for fast delivery through their transport services. Mauser provides a selection of splitters for both professional and commercial use, making it a convenient option for local buyers looking for reliable optical components (Mauser) .

Farnell Portugal

Farnell Portugal stocks a large inventory of splitters from top manufacturers such as Pro Signal, Startech, L-com, Te Connectivity, and Roline. They provide technical support, datasheets, fast quotes, and same-day dispatch, which is ideal for businesses or individuals needing quick access to optical splitters for network installations or upgrades (Farnell Portugal) .

Other Options

While not direct sellers, FastFiber and Altice Labs are notable Portuguese companies in the fiber optic telecommunications sector. They specialize in optical distribution networks and fiber concentration technologies, which may include access to splitters for large-scale network deployments. These companies are more focused on wholesale or network infrastructure rather than retail sales (Ensun.io) .
