

Where to find good explosion-proof electrical distribution boxes in Northern Europe

Article Overview

Top suppliers of explosion-proof distribution boxes in Northern Europe include HARDO, Marechal, R. STAHL, Atex Delvalle, and BARTEC, all offering ATEX/IECEx-certified solutions for hazardous areas.

Recommended Suppliers

HARDO (Poland) HARDO provides aluminum and stainless steel explosion-proof terminal and junction boxes suitable for zones 1, 2, 21, and 22. Their products are certified under EN 60079-7 ("Ex-e") and can be customized with cable glands, terminals, and other components according to project requirements. They offer a wide range of sizes and robust designs for industrial applications, making them a competitive alternative to global manufacturers in terms of quality and price .

Marechal (UK/Europe) The Marechal B2X range includes explosion-proof distribution boxes up to 750V, equipped with CRIC increased safety terminal blocks and cable glands. These boxes comply with the 94/9/CE directive and feature stainless steel external fastenings. They are suitable for hazardous areas and provide reliable performance in industrial environments .
